

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A selecting unit configured to select an object to be reproduced in video data contents and configured to obtain a corresponding object related data, the object related data being related to the object and including a start time at which the object appears in the video data contents. An acquisition unit configured to acquire the start time from the object related data.

A reproduction unit configured to start reproducing the video data contents based on the start time.